

A Level Drama

Explore ideas, create theatre, perform with confidence.

Why choose this subject?

AQA A Level Drama develops your creativity, confidence, and analytical skills through practical performance and in-depth study of theatre. It's ideal for students who enjoy working collaboratively and thinking critically about how drama communicates ideas.

What will I study?

You will learn about key drama practitioners and apply their techniques to your own performances. You will watch professional theatre performances at least three times a year to write critically about this and your own work. You will study major plays through practical workshops and learn to think like an actor, director and designer.

Where can this subject take me?

This course will prepare you for higher education as well as a career in the performing arts. It will also equip you with transferable skills suitable for a wide range of higher education courses and careers.
